Welcome to the American Journal of Clinical Medicine (AJCM). This peer reviewed journal is dedicated to improving the practice of clinical medicine by providing up to date education for today's practitioners.

The AJCM is the official journal of the American Association of Physicians Specialists, Inc. (AAPS), an organization dedicated to promoting the highest intellectual, moral, and ethical standards of its members, and whose diversity incorporates physicians that represent a broad spectrum of specialties including anesthesiology, dermatology, diagnostic radiology, emergency medicine, family practice, geriatric medicine, internal medicine, obstetrics and gynecology, ophthalmology, orthopedic surgery, plastic and reconstructive surgery, psychiatry, radiation oncology and general surgery. Part of the mission of the AAPS is to provide education for its members and to promote study, research, and improvement of its various specialties. In order to further these goals, the AJCM invites submissions of high-quality review articles, clinical reports, case reports or original research on any topic which has potential to impact the daily practice of medicine.

Articles that appear in the AJCM are peer reviewed by members of the editorial board or by other experts in the appropriate field as selected by the editorial board. However, readers will note a special section in this issue of the AJCM called Proceedings of the Disaster Medicine Conference, which are non-peer reviewed summaries of topics that are to be discussed at the upcoming 2006 Disaster Medicine Conference in Vancouver. This section has been included to help disseminate some of this vital information.

Comments or suggestions from our readers are appreciated. Please feel free to contact me at editor@aapsga.org.
